

Dr. Fang Ba, MD, PhD, FRCPC (Neurology)

Dr. Ba received her MD degree from University of Calgary in 2007. She also obtained her PhD degree in Physiology/Neuroscience from University of Alberta. She finished her neurology residency and CIHR fellowship in Movement Disorders at the University of Alberta. She also pursued further training in Deep brain stimulation (DBS) in University of Florida. Her research interest and practice are in DBS for movement disorders. She is currently Associate Professor in the Division of Neurology, University of Alberta.

Dr. Ba is the director of the Parkinson and Movement Disorders program.