

Dave Humen, Edmonton

David Humen is an energetic and positive individual with over 30 years of experience in Edmonton working with a variety of businesses, not-for-profits and community partners to build, improve and increase their brand awareness and business goals. Dave has extensive knowledge and experience and a deep well of trusted relationships that endure and reach beyond traditional marketing strategies. He is a strong believer in the power of partnerships and takes a creative approach to innovation. Dave brings a wealth of knowledge in building organizational awareness but also has a unique perspective on and experience in people management and development of organizational culture. Dave lives in Edmonton with his wife, Colleen, and their son, who attends the University of Alberta. Dave is already an enthusiastic supporter of Parkinson Association of Alberta and is eager to further demonstrate the same as a director of the Board.
